KEMPINSKI.COM/RIGA

For six years, Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga has embraced this legendary address, a fascinating place where history meets modern times, with the breath of the hundred-year-old heritage still felt as visitors go through the front door. Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga Residences and Suites provide an exquisite level of comfort, catering to the discerning tastes of both locals and visitors alike. The 23 charming residences, 100 luxurious rooms, 41 splendid suites and one especially magnificent presidential suite, complimented by an all-day-dining restaurant offering international dishes with a modern twist; a rooftop restaurant/bar with unique cocktails and a breathtaking panoramic view of the capital; five meeting rooms; the Grand Ballroom; a lively casino and a comprehensive spa. These are just some of the gems one may discover in this grand hotel.

Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga is an oasis of well-being in Riga. The World Travel Awards named it Latvia's Leading Hotel and Latvia's Leading Hotel Suite in 2023. The staff's professionalism and hospitality keep guests returning – this personal touch is the Kempinski Riga. An important guiding principle of all Kempinski Hotels is high-quality service coupled with authenticity and personal care. It is no secret that the ground floor is what creates the first impression and builds reputation. Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga is designed to make a stay as comfortable and memorable as possible, starting with a lavish breakfast in an amber-encrusted restaurant, followed by a relaxing business meeting complemented with a cup of tea and finishing with intellectual discussions in the Cigar Lounge.

Holding the title of the oldest hotel company in Europe, Kempinski, as a name, speaks for itself. Not only the long-standing high quality and diversity of its services but also the proximity to a major shopping and restaurant area, as well as being an inch-long distance from the main historical landmarks and attractions, including the old town, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, makes Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga the perfect location for an exquisite holiday stay, business trips, conferences, private celebrations or simply being with loved ones.

— Accommodation —

GUEST ROOMS & SUITES

Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga is the home of 23 charming Residences, 100 lavish rooms and 41 elegant suites. All of the suites and residences are endowed with a magnificent view of the Old Town, the National Opera House and the Freedom Boulevard, Brīvības Bulvāris. Built with uncompromising comfort and luxury in mind, all rooms possess a floor space of at least

35 sq m. The hotel also thought of its guests with special needs by having two rooms with a modified interior and doorway at their disposal. Guests with allergies can likewise benefit from rooms equipped with hypoallergenic pillows and fabrics selected specifically for them. Designed by the acclaimed interior expert, Alex Kravetz, all floors pay tribute to the building's unique and rich history through splendid murals, beautiful French artwork and polished marble flooring while the contemporary shapes and colors of the furnishings revive the place and create a captivating sense of the future. All rooms are fitted with a cosy seating area and a spacious bathroom, but the focal point is undoubtedly the exclusive king-size Kempinski dream bed and the highest-quality Egyptian cotton bed linen, which ensure a restful sleep at all times. Designed with an individual approach, each of the 141 rooms and suites showcases a unique set of pastel tones and paintings. However, there is one thing that unites them all – solid, Latvian-manufactured, wooden furnishings which, together with refined stylistic lines and harmonistic textures, reflect the country's close relationship with nature. What makes the Grand Hotel an even more pleasant place to stay are the technical tweaks and high-level safety systems it provides to its guests. The electronic key card is an essential element that functions as an impeccable door lock and expedient control system, turning on the lights and air conditioner automatically upon entry. All rooms include a personal safe, a minibar, in-room coffee and tea facilities, a flat-screen TV with over 40 channels, a telephone and high-speed Internet access. Every suite is equipped with a practical, large wardrobe that conveniently stores all belongings.

— Presidential Suite —

ABSOLUTE LUXURY AND COMFORT

Presidential suites are the key component that differentiates the good hotels from the great hotels. The Presidential suite in Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga is reserved for its most eminent guests and is, therefore, designed with absolute luxury and comfort in mind. Containing five individual rooms with an elaborate security system and overlooking the National Opera House, Freedom Monument, city park and symbol of Riga – St Peter's Church – the suite resembles a sophisticated downtown apartment. Its adjacent superior rooms can be used to accommodate the accompanying staff, such as nannies and guards, or other family members.

The large 278 sq m Presidential suite is located on Floor 7 and can be accessed by personal lift and a discreet, individual entrance from the street, preventing any intrusion from the outside. The exquisite suite comprises a lightly furnished living room, an office, a dining room and an elegant bathroom with a bath and a separate shower, as well as an embellished bedroom with a walk-in dressing room. Furthermore, guests can enjoy a peaceful evening after a long, busy day by enjoying a glass of wine in the cosy lounge area or strengthening their health the Nordic way in an authentic Finnish sauna and a steam room.

— Wine and Dine —

AT GRAND HOTEL KEMPINSKI RIGA

The Grand Hotel was renowned for its exquisite and original cuisine as soon as it opened its doors. Since the 1960s, it has always set the bar very high for the competitors, when Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga went down in history as the “IT” place where Rigans could savor the first-ever cocktails in the city.

Many things have changed but dining is still an integral part of the hotel’s hospitality. Today, guests can indulge in top-quality produce in premium venues whose greatness lies in the hands of professional chefs, sommeliers and mixologists.

— Amber Restaurant —

THE BEST BREAKFAST IN RIGA

Although invisible from the entrance, Amber Restaurant allures from a distance with the mouth-watering smell of its culinary wonders. Once inside, the glittering room awes guests with its splendid amber interior, which links with the gemstone found in one of Latvia's most important treasures – the Baltic Sea. Amber is known for its impressive breakfast selection, boasting a menu with over 100 food options and beverages, making it a must-visit restaurant. It's certainly worthwhile for everyone seeking to begin their day with a fulfilling meal. Distinguished among Riga's gourmet scene, this restaurant has been acclaimed as one of the city's finest breakfast destinations. Particularly noteworthy is their Weekend Breakfast experience, offered on weekends and holidays. The offer includes free flowing sparkling wine, non-alcoholic drinks, a rich buffet of hot and cold snacks, European cuisine, freshly squeezed juices and various desserts.

— Stage22 — Bar & Restaurant

An undeniable pearl of Kempinski Riga is the stylish rooftop Stage22 Bar & Restaurant, which is one of the nicest rooftop restaurants and bars in the city. Covering the right corner of the top floor, the venue offers a breathtaking panoramic view of the impressive local landmarks. Due to its lounge-style concept, it serves as an informal gathering place for all city guests and residents. The number 22 in its name symbolizes the building's address.

Stage22 Bar & Restaurant offers great vibes and gives talented local artists a platform for exposure, supporting their development. The restaurant features an Asian - Fusion menu, which expertly blends flavors and innovative techniques, all while highlighting the finest local ingredients. The restaurant's welcoming atmosphere, trendy music, attentive service and carefully selected signature cocktails make it a sought-after destination for diners.

— Lobby Lounge —

THE GROUND FLOOR OF GRAND HOTEL KEMPINSKI RIGA IS FILLED WITH SOME ELEGANT REST AREAS THAT TRULY REPRESENT THE SOUL OF THIS ICONIC HOTEL.

The Lobby Lounge is definitely the most serene place in the whole hotel. Decorated with selected artworks and comfortable club chairs and positioned strategically right across the hall from the reception, the lounge zone invites incoming and outgoing guests for a brief repose in between their various errands.

Some seats face the eye-catching, marble staircase, a protected heritage site rising from the center of the lobby, serving as a perfect backdrop for a quick business meeting, as well as a friendly conversation complemented by afternoon tea and fine wine.

— Cigar Lounge —

The Cigar Lounge at Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga provides an ideal environment for enjoying a carefully selected cigar indoors. The elegant space, defined by its rich wooden accents and sleek design, mirrors the distinguished nature of its patrons. Crafted as a tranquil sanctuary, it offers respite after a long day's work.

The subtle taste of the first-rate cognac and ingering scent of the finest cigar smoke enjoyed in stylish and comfortable surroundings are what describe this sacred venue as the best and make it the perfect location for a small, private get-together with friends and business partners or a peaceful evening in one's own company.

— Meetings and Events —

AT KEMPINSKI RIGA

There are many occasions in life that deserve a special approach. Whether it be weddings, private celebrations, business meetings or major conferences, the experienced and caring team at Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga will handle events of any kind and grandeur with the utmost respect for the individual needs and highest standards.

Located on the ground floor, the majestic Grand Ballroom encompasses a six-metre- high room, adorned with crystal chandeliers, refined marble and wooden wall elements, and immense ceiling windows overlooking the calm oasis of the Latvian National Opera and the park. The large TV monitor wall functions as a great asset for presentations, while the extended rectangular shape of the room allows for organizing dynamic events, such as fashion shows, or dividing the Grand Ballroom into three separate sections and hosting three different events simultaneously. This elegant venue, which can accommodate up to 300 guests, was once a restaurant and has now been turned into one of the most beautiful ballrooms in the city.

The hotel also offers five stunning private meeting rooms, located right next to the Grand Ballroom. They are all named after famous individual musical movements – Sonata, Solo, Symphony, Andante and Allegro – which is yet another reference to the neighboring National Opera House. Each room features modern equipment and a stunning interior, illuminated by natural daylight, making them a perfectly suitable location for international conferences, forums, seminars or more intimate gatherings.

For a rather personalized service and a more intimate environment, guests are welcome to book the Kempinski VIP room. Settled behind the Stage22 Bar & Restaurant, the private event venue is enclosed by full-length glass windows, with a private terrace. This exclusive space also pampers its guests with impressive views of the eastern and southern parts of the city, as well as ensuring complete privacy from the outside, and is therefore considered an ideal place for intimate meals, birthdays, anniversary celebrations or meetings.

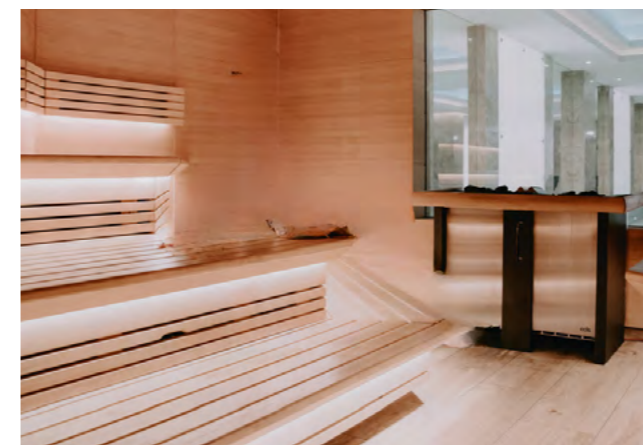

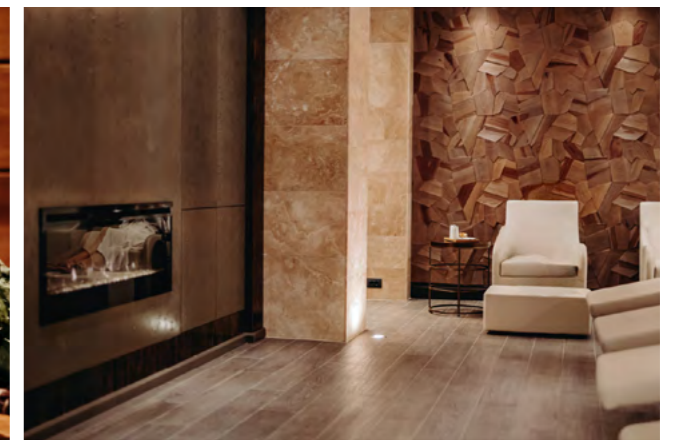

— Kempinski The Spa —

LUXURY SPA

There is no better way to spend a day off or take a rest after being on one's feet the whole day than to indulge oneself in the pure relaxation presented by Kempinski The Spa.

Kempinski The Spa is located on the underground level of the hotel and offers facial and body treatments, spa suites for two, a relaxation room for every guest, a 16-meter-long spa pool, an ice fountain, a rasul mud treatment room, a bio sauna and a fitness centre with state-of-the-art equipment. While taking care of guests' well being, Kempinski The Spa team also offers unique procedures, for example, the ritual that embodies Latvian culture and traditions. In line with the global trend of reconnecting with nature, Kempinski The Spa offers a chance to escape a routine through an authentic Latvian Pirts Sauna ritual. This Latvian 'pirts' or sauna embodies age-old traditions meticulously preserved over centuries. The aroma of juniper and birch leaves steamed to perfection, a special scrub infused with Baltic amber and an invigorating birch-whisk massage together create a truly unforgettable relaxation experience, reviving both mind and body. Undoubtedly, the genuine Latvian Pirts Sauna at Kempinski The Spa, nestled in the heart of Riga, imparts a unique touch of enchantment, cocooning spa visitors in warmth, solace and serenity, bidding farewell to their everyday cares.

— Lady in Red —

VIKTORIJA JUREVICA

Some guests call her the fairy godmother, others, the more elegant, non-singing version of Mary Poppins, but the official name tag says “Lady in Red.” Either one, two, or five Ladies in Red, depending on the hotel’s size, are the Kempinski brand ambassadors and they have become an integral part of every single Kempinski hotel worldwide. Kempinski Riga’s Lady in Red is Viktorija Jurevica, and regardless of the given title, she is always there to help and satisfy the needs of the hotel’s guests. Dressed in a red dress which is almost as bright as her smile, she is the first person to greet the hotel’s guests once they step over the threshold of Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga.

Viktorija can be considered as the right-hand woman who can fulfil even the fanciest of wishes. These specific requests may stretch from welcoming the guest’s spouse with a one-of-a-kind birthday cake from a small local bakery to organising an intimate dinner with a string quartet in the background. Personal contact, customised service and knowledge about everything going on in the hotel and its neighboring area are the three most important elements that characterize Viktorija. Being as kind and passionate about her guests as Viktorija is, it is clear that she is always one step ahead of everyone in making the guests feel at home and creating happy memories for them.

CONCIERGE

Right beside the charming Lady in Red stands the hotel’s most complaisant representative – the concierge. The friendly and experienced team at Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga knows the hotel and city by heart and will gladly give their tips on what to do in Riga and when. One might also witness them recounting a couple of entertaining tales, unveiling the thrilling past of the structure and its inquisitive patrons. Whether opera and ballet tickets, restaurant table reservations, private jets or last-minute gifts, the concierge will take great care of every detail, allowing Kempinski Riga guests to relax and focus on more important matters.

VALET PARKING

The days when guests had to worry about where to park their precious cars while enjoying their stay at the hotel are long gone. Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga offers a secure indoor parking garage just 500 m away from the building, and with the valet parking service in full force, there is no need to search for it yourself. The hotel’s bellboys will ensure proper handling of the vehicle and return it safely from the nearby Jacob’s Barracks whenever necessary. In addition, a car wash is also available upon request.

— General Manager —

CARMEN MAUTHNER

Carmen Mauthner, the general manager of Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga is eager to extend a warm welcome to guests. The Austrian national has 27 years of very diverse luxury hotel experience, having worked on various continents for luxury groups such as Mandarin Oriental Hotel Group hotels in Chiang Mai and Taiwan, the Shangri-La Bangkok Hotel in Thailand, the One&Only Royal Mirage, and Dubai's most iconic hotel, the Burj Al Arab.

Carmen Mauthner's journey with Kempinski Hotels began at the Palais Hansen Kempinski Vienna as Hotel Manager. She then became in charge of running the European Operation of the Kempinski group as the regional director of operations. In this role, she successfully led the European hotel operation for Kempinski, overseeing 27 assets.

The passionate industry professional has worked closely with hotel teams, ownerships, and clients as well as Kempinski's corporate office and has held the role of stand-in General manager for the group in Malta, St. Petersburg, and its resort hotels in Bodrum and Belek, Turkey. Carmen Mauthner's main goal is to provide a memorable experience to guests and visitors.

'It's important to me that we create memorable experiences for our guests whilst identifying their needs and preferences. We achieve this through our very high-level and consistent service delivery. I also like to promote the destination through our luxury brand and showcase the beauty of Latvia and its people. The Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga is the lap of authentic Latvian luxury in Riga. Luxury keeps evolving and must be lived and felt at all times, adapting to our guests.'

— How it all began —

The majestic building on Aspazijas bulvāris 22 has welcomed the most prominent city guests since the 19th century. It was in 1878 that it first opened its doors as a hotel, the most modern accommodation in Riga that combined the best Western and local traditions. Bearing the name of the picturesque European capital, Hotel Rome was founded by the famous Latvian architect and philanthropist Kristaps Morbergs. It soon acquired the reputation of an excellent weekend stay among travellers and a fascinating locale in the eyes of Rigans.

Hotel Rome was the first hotel in Riga that had a telephone and electric light. This was achieved by establishing a small power station next to the Opera House, which had already been crowned as a significant landmark at that time. In the 1920s, the hotel changed its proprietors and was further managed by the Jurgenson family – a team of highly skilled hoteliers. It was during that era that Hotel Rome became famous for its enticing restaurant, called the Roman Cave.

Not only the exquisite cuisine but also the maze-like room layout attracted more and more visitors as years went by.

Each guest could find a room that would perfectly suit their particular taste. History lovers preferred the Room of Knights, diplomats tended to settle down in the Dutch Hall, young couples – in the Hall of Love, while gourmands chose the Hunting Hall as their favourite location. The restaurant's menu was based on a similar blend of international and local foods just like today, and the fruit and vegetables delivered fresh from the Jurgensons' own farm made each dish particularly natural and exclusive. Nonetheless, the real pearl of the "Roman Cave" was the Porcelain Room, which normally functioned as a storage room for a grand selection of golden plates and silverware and was opened for guests only on special occasions - for instance, when the legendary Russian opera singer Feodor Chaliapin visited the city.

At the dawn of WWII, there were several other celebrities who enjoyed the hospitality of Hotel Rome. One of them was the famous Russian writer Ivan Bunin, who resided in the hotel five years after he had won the Nobel Prize in 1938. The acclaimed guest was impressed by the Europeanism of the beautiful capital city and the great service he received. Zog I, King of the Albanians, was also supposed to take refuge in Hotel Rome following the Italian occupation of Albania in 1939. However, due to the then unpleasant association of Rome with the Fascist army, the King chose Hotel Saint Petersburg, located in front of Riga Castle, instead.

Despite the never-ending conflicts between the construction team and the project manager, the renowned pre-war architect Sergey Antonov, Hotel Riga was soon ready to welcome the most refined guests again.

The unique ambience of the hotel owes much to the high-calibre staff, whose outstanding skills and resourcefulness were often highlighted in biographical novels.

Even today, four years after the change of ownership and another reconstruction period,

The newly designed hotel was considered to provide one of the best services in the Soviet Union. In 1967, it made history as the first place in Latvia that had a bar, while its head bartender Jāzeps Arbidāns, became a legend for mixing the first-ever alcoholic cocktail not only in Riga, but also in the whole of the Soviet Union.

Sadly, the tourist-favourite hotel did not manage to escape the nightmare of WWII. After being almost entirely destroyed in a projectile attack, Hotel Rome was quickly rebuilt in the following years, and along with a new face, the building also got a new name - this time proudly representing its birthplace, Riga.

the people-oriented management style is still written in the hotel's DNA.

The European luxury, combined with a down-to-earth attitude and openness to new ideas, as well as to objective criticism, is what will separate Grand Hotel Kempinski Riga from any other hotel in the capital. Taking the best of its heritage and an ideal location in the very heart of Riga, the iconic building is ready to set out on a journey to become the leading flagship property in modern Latvia.
